Stadium

Future

In August 2011 the Seagulls will play their first ever league game at the state of the art American Express Community Stadium.

The Amex will hold 22,500 fans, and will have facilities to rival Wembley Stadium and Arsenal's Emirates Stadium.

The total cost of the project is £93 million – that's about £200,000 per day! The main roof alone will be made of 2000 tonnes of steel, the pitch will have under-soil heating and the stadium will have 14 lifts and 319 toilets!

Every seat will have a brilliant view of the action, and best of all, every seat will be padded!

Make sure you take a look around the Stadium section on the Gully's Gang website to find out more about the Amex, and see what's going on right now on site with our fab webcam!
